

Lend Lease's latest safety programme "Three out of Three" supports all employees to stop work practice if unsafe or an extreme risk to themselves or others. This message was reinforced by Rhett Brown at the recent company Super Safety Toolbox attended by 200 employees, contractors and client representatives.

The room went unusually quiet five minutes into Rhett's workplace safety message and stayed that way for the full duration of the presentation. The impact of his own personal experience immediately touched many minds, hearts and souls of the audience as people related to the practices at the time of Rhett's critical incident.

The message our people got was never to put themselves in that unsafe position no matter what the circumstances knowing they have the company's support which gives them the authority to stop.

Kind regards
